TBS Students Arrange Essential Supplies for Partner Projects

Over the past few days we have been in touch with many of the projects that we work with and have received urgent calls of need for tarpaulins, food, water, hygienic products and medicine.

Today we went out and bought some stock in order for us to get these provisions out to those in need. The students were in charge of allocating the right amounts to each project and then they did all the work to get everything on the transport and ready to go.

We sent a large tarpaulin, food, cleaning products, and 5 days water supply to the school in Bungamati. We also sent a large tent and a enough of supplies to Swayambhu to help 120 students that do not have accommodation or support from elsewhere.

The supplies were well received especially the tarpaulin and plastic sheeting that was needed for urgent shelter. You can see some pictures below:

Right now this is what people need most but in the future the students at the schools we work with will need a sustainable earthquake proof facility in order to study for their own futures. Please consider donating to the projects that The British School is supporting to help strengthen and rebuild educational facilities in Nepal.
