TBS Supports Temporary Rehousing of Mother and Daughter from Sungava

On Saturday we received a call from Sungava, a women’s training centre that supports girls with learning difficulties and Downs Syndrome to become independent and self-reliant in a family environment. The school has been working with Sungava for 2 years and, as well as supporting them financially, our students have run termly events with the girls including sports, crafts, and fairs where Sungava have sold the products they make.

Thankfully all the girls are safe but one of the girls Sungava supports has serious damage to her house and she and her mother had nowhere else to go so were planning to stay. TBS teachers are hosting and looking after the mother and daughter until a more permanent solution can found.

We continue to be in regular contact with our partner projects and we are asking them what they need for the immediate future. Today we met with teachers from the Dhading Project about the damage to their schools and we are giving some initial help of food and emergency supplies.

You can find information on what we do on our website here: http://www.tbskathmandu.org/extra-curricular/community-service-charitable-work/

Please share this with friends, colleagues and loved ones and hopefully we can continue to raise as many donations as possible.

Please reply if you would like to be taken off this mailing list.

Best regards,
The TBS Community
